

Nottingham Hackspace Comics Making Group

Nottingham Does Comics, 10th of April 2018

Gareth Howell
aka @GarethDoodles
Comics group founder

Nat Titman
aka @quarridors,
Nat themself

A community workshop where makers and crafters share tools, space, techniques and time. Pooling resources for bigger projects, funding specialist equipment, and running groups, events and workshops

- Large studio, ideal for drawing and crafting
- A3 printers, 3D printers, computer room
- Textiles, sewing machines and overlocker
- Screen printing capabilities
- Fully equipped electronics area
- Woodworking and metalworking facilities
- Laser printer and rotary etcher
- Huge numbers of tools and raw materials
- Storage space for members' projects
- Kitchen, social areas, and more!

Open Hack Night every Wednesday

Roden House, junction of Alfred Street South and Ashley Street. 7 minutes walk from here!

Come along after 6:30pm on any Wednesday to try out the Hackspace for free!

Regular workshops, groups and events welcome non-members.

Membership on a 'pay what you like' basis, with 24 hour access to the space, use of tools, equipment and materials.

Natalie Nourigat

Comics Making Group started by Gareth in July 2014

Group ethos

- Open to everyone
- All ability, experience and ‘aspiration’ levels
- ‘Comics-life balance’
- Open to trying new ways of doing things
- Fun and playful – low pressure

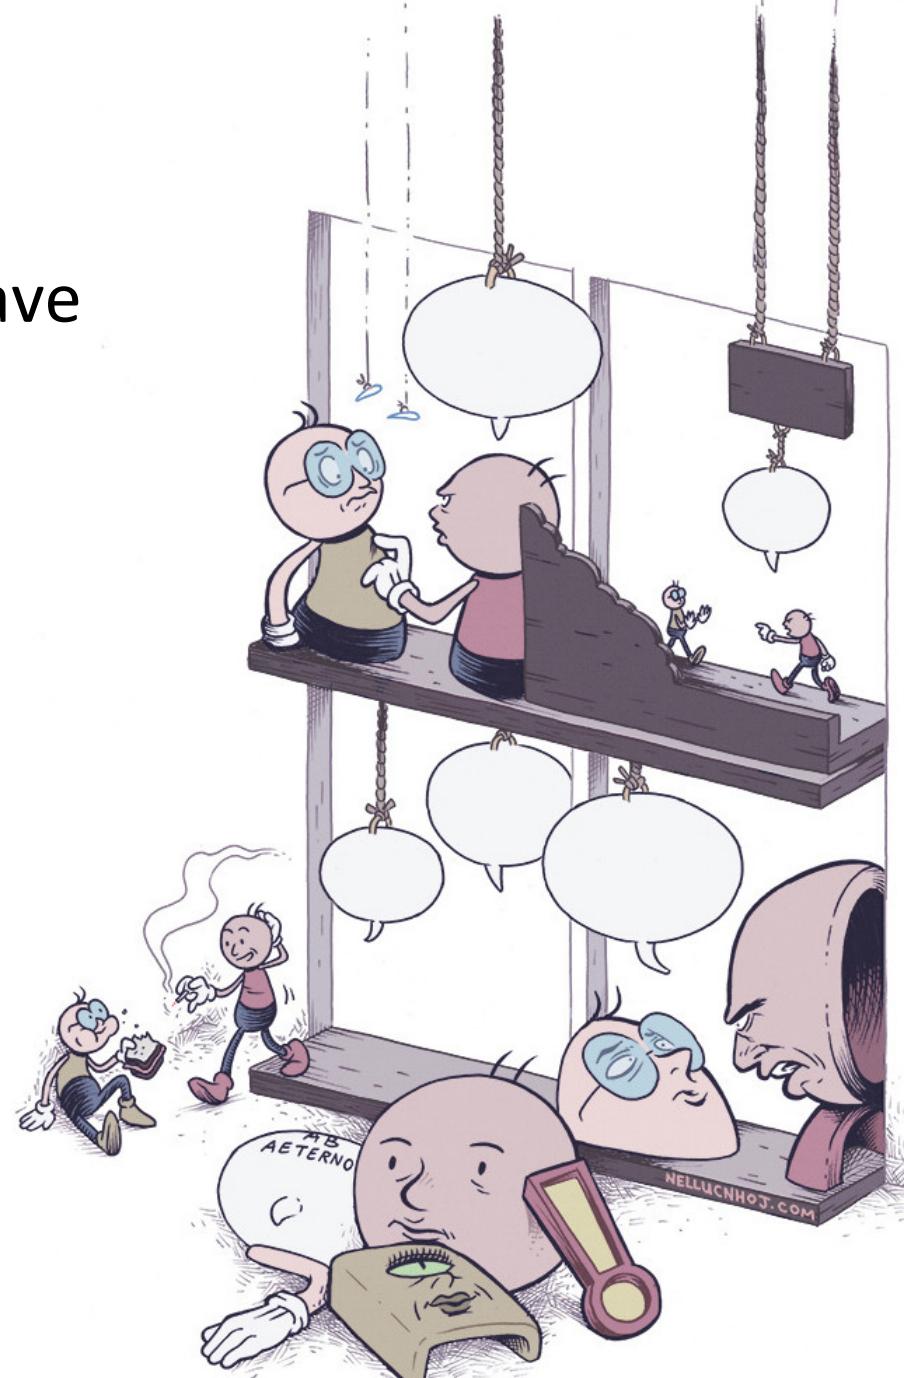

Illustration from “Badger and Vole” by Howard Hardiman

“Show and Tell”

- Bring along comics that have inspired us
- Examples of techniques
- Tutorials and resources
- Our own work in progress
- Anything else we've been enjoying!

Comic by John Cullen, nellucnhoj.com

Group Exercises

Embarrassing anecdotes challenge, June 2016

Story by Nat, comic by Daniel Zadik

Annoyed John De Lancie
(Q from Star Trek TNG)
by not noticing his signifying table was there and standing in front of him chatting for ages

LEIGH AND THE CLOWN...

Celebrity caricatures exercise, July 2017

Art by Nat, Dan and Gareth

World Book Day covers exercise, March 2016

GREAT EXPECTATIONS
by Charles Dickens

Art by Nat and Gareth

GOTHIC HÆBERDASHERY

WHAT WONDERFUL
FABRIC! DOES IT
COME IN POWDER
BLUE?

OWNER

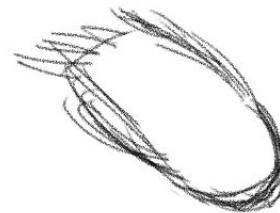

PHILIP PULLMAN
HIS DARK MATERIALS

Lessons we've learned:

- Keep challenges simple and self-contained!
- Limitations can be easier than possibilities
- Discussions before drawing help loads!
- Don't set homework!
- It's just for fun!

Head, hands and feet
exercise, December 2016

Sometimes we learn more from the 'failed' or 'too difficult' exercises than the ones that produce brilliant artwork we can show off at the end!

Faceless and wordless challenge, November 2017

3 PANEL - FACELESS CHARACTER.
TELL STORY THROUGH BODY LANGUAGE.

Art by Matt Brooker

Exercises can be more about the discussion we have afterwards than what we draw

Some of us produce finished comics, others notes or rough pencils

There's a mixture of digital, pencils and pens used during challenges

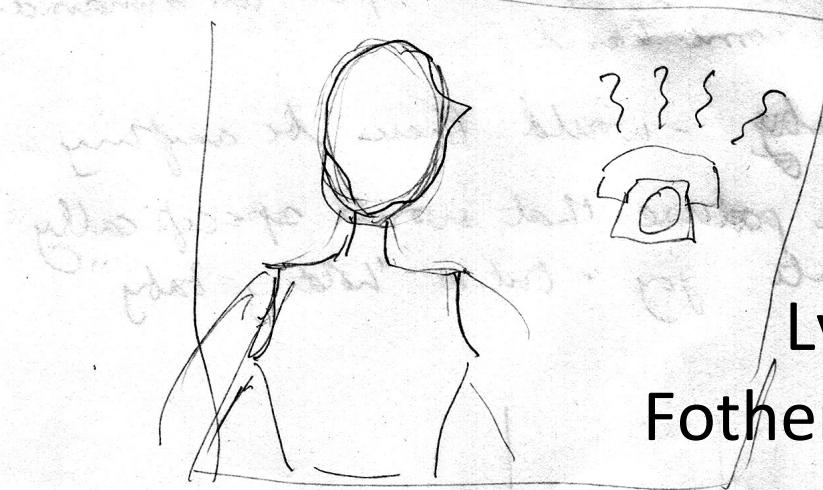

Art by Nat and Gareth

sample
GORIES
Nov 2017
Story WITH NO
FAVORITES.

Daniel Zadik

crash test dummy
depicted about job
but resigned... ("I hate Mondays")

Lynn Fotheringham

looking for something: holding hands over
as you peer into distance

is that in itself enough to communicate dejection.

Hazel Seanor

Questions and Answers

- Any questions?
- Then it's time for a break
- ...and then a drawing exercise...
- Let's DO some comics!

Words by @MicroSFF

We've both improved our comics drawing skills thanks to the group!

Round Robin Comics Challenge

Collaborative 9 panel comics, we give you story prompts, then you take turns to draw each panel

Art by Matt Brooker

Gareth Howell

Nat Titman

“Invention, Creation and Discovery”

1. The test run of a time machine is interrupted by a visitor from the future with an important message
2. Precocious kids hack a household appliance, but then find they can't control it
3. Competing inventors of the same travel machine concept use their prototypes to race to the patent office and claim the technology as their own - it's neck-and-neck up to the last moment, and then...
4. An inventor finishes constructing a Heath Robinson (Rube Goldberg) contraption to perform a mundane task, the results of the first test run are surprising...

5. A frustrated engineer leaves the drawing board behind to go for a walk, then finds the inspiration needed to solve their design problem in an unexpected place
6. A pet translation device leads to the one family's animals going on strike
7. A birdwatcher discovers that missing drones have gone feral and are acting like wild birds ...could they possibly be nesting?
8. When the package arrives, office workers are keen to setup their new networked 3D printer ...until it starts receiving junk mail

Make a note of which story this is

Establish setting, characters and props

Distinctive characters – clear shapes, hair, hats, etc

Develop the drama / conflict / mystery

Feel free to use close-ups, labels, dialogue or arrows!

Final act – The Big Reveal – The Payoff!

Get us near to the end of the story

End this thing!

@HSNOTTS
nottinghack.org.uk

@GarethDoodles

@quarridors
quarridors.com

The Comics Making Group runs from 7pm to 9pm on the first Thursday of every month.

facebook.com/groups/hackspacecomics